Skillveri strengthens its presence in Europe

For catering to the needs of our customers in Western Europe, we have now partnered with Airless Discounter, a leading retailer in spray painting equipment from Germany. Airless Discounter differentiates from others in this territory through its emphasis on imparting the right training to use the equipment it sells. And with this partnership, they could offer a better, environment friendly technology driven training. For our customers of Skillveri Chroma in Germany, Switzerland & Austria, this partnership ensures local support is provided by experts from the domain.

Stefan Trepke

CEO

Airless Discounter

“ The opportunity it offers to train and spray more, at the same time, to have access to infinite workpieces without worrying about costs of disposal, no need for a spray booth and respiratory protection plus the depth of analysis and evaluation far beyond the human eye - I realised right away, we had to have one for our Airless Discounter Academy. That was the starting point for cooperation with Skillveri and we are now happy to introduce and present Skillveri training equipment to the Western European market. ”

BREAKING STEREOTYPES!

Skillveri was the simulation partner at the National Best Welder Competitions for Women organised by Kemppli India, Next Gen Plasma & The Indian Institute of Welding. It was great to see women breaking barriers and stereotypes attached to certain job roles. The competition was held across India – at Pune, Delhi, Kolkata & Chennai during November 2019. The Final was held in Chennai at Kemppli premises on 6th December 2019. Over 60 Welders participated and showcased their welding skills.

It is always heart-warming for us to see our simulators being an effective and efficient tool to enable more women contribute to the Industry. We are thankful to Kemppli India for providing us this opportunity. We are looking forward to being part of future competitions planned.. We hope that new year 2020 witnesses more women breaking the norm and making the workplace balanced.
